Brief content of the academic discipline:

The structure of the compulsory module "Fine art and decorative-applied activities practice" consists of two levels: mastering processing technology and training technology. At the first level, students study: the origin, types, properties of various materials and their processing technology, rules for safe work with tools; technologies for manual processing of various materials (materials science, technological operations and techniques). At the second level, the basics of the management of fine art and decorative-applied activities of preschool children are taught.
