Summary of the content of the academic discipline:
The structure of the discipline is systemic in nature and includes two interrelated levels of consideration of education issues. The first level is theoretical and methodological – theory, history, methodology of education. It assumes formation of holistic idea of education as a socio-cultural and pedagogical phenomenon. The second level is instrumental and includes mechanisms for organizing the educational process. This includes theoretical knowledge and practical skills in designing the content of teaching and learning, establishing interdisciplinary links, and developing teaching and learning materials for the educational process.
