

Name of the educational discipline:
“Fundamentals of Psycholinguistics”

Specialty code and name	1-21 05 06 Romano-Germanic Philology
Year of study	3
Semester of study	6
Number of in-class academic hours	42
Lectures	20
Seminars	-
Practical classes	22
Laboratory classes	-
The form of the current assessment (credit / differentiated credit / exam)	credit
Number of credits	3
Emerging competencies	Be able to study the functions, processes, and products of speech activity in native and foreign languages; use psycholinguistic experiment as a method of research on the material of native and foreign languages. Possess interdisciplinary approaches to solve professional problems and be able to use the basic provisions and methods of social and humanitarian sciences in the cognitive activity
Summary of the academic discipline:
The academic discipline “Fundamentals of Psycholinguistics” is included in the module of general scientific and professional disciplines in the curriculum of the specialty “1-21 05 06 Romano-Germanic Philology”. The content structure of the discipline “Fundamentals of Psycholinguistics” has a complex character, including theoretical and experimental thematic blocks. The theoretical thematic block reveals the features of psycholinguistics as an integrative science: subject, tasks, methods, sections; actual directions in its development; the essence of the psycholinguistic concept and the conceptual apparatus of psycholinguistics; the structure of speech activity, models of generation and perception of speech; mechanisms and regularities of mastering native and non-native languages; regularities of language teaching in the situation of bilingualism and trends in the development of bilingual education in the modern world. In the experimental thematic block the ideas about methods, technologies, ways and techniques of teaching a non-native (foreign) language are formed.	