

Academic discipline:
«Environmental economics»

| | |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Code and name of specialty | 1-26 02 02-02 Management (Social and Administrative) |
| Training course | 1 |
| Semester of training | 2 |
| Number of class hours: | 52 |
| Lectures | 34 |
| Seminar classes | - |
| Practical classes | 18 |
| Laboratory classes | - |
| Form of current assessment (credit/differential credit/exam) | credit |
| Number of credits | 3 |
| Competencies to be formed | The mastering of the academic discipline «Environmental economics» should ensure the formation of specialized competencies: to assess the sustainability of socio-economic development at all levels of management, to develop a comprehensive economic justification for making effective management decisions, to use methodological tools of environmental economics necessary for the effective management of natural objects, to develop a policy of effective environmental management. |

Brief content of the academic discipline:

The Environmental economics is an academic discipline that studies the features of the economic mechanism of environmental management and methods of the most effective interaction between society and the natural environment.

The content of the academic discipline includes work in the following areas:

- study of the features of interaction between society and nature;
- study of the basics of conducting an economic assessment of the state of natural resources, and damage from environmental pollution, as well as the effectiveness of environmental protection measures;
- building skills in the development of measures for the rational use of land, water and forest resources.